Randall Manufacturing: Making A Positive Impact On Fighting Hunger

Chicago, November 17, 2010 - Randall Manufacturing, a Chicago-based manufacturer of temperature zoning products for the warehouse and transportation industries, is pleased to announce their alliance with the Northern Illinois Food Bank. Northern Illinois Food Bank (NIFB) is a member of Feeding America and recent recipient of the Food Bank of the Year 2010 award. They are an Illinois not-for-profit organization that provides food to those in need through its 665 partner agencies in thirteen counties including DuPage County where Randall Manufacturing is headquartered.

In 2010, Randall Manufacturing made a commitment to fight hunger by extending its industry experience and premier temperature zoning products to the NIFB. “One of the greatest gifts is education. Randall Manufacturing has the opportunity to help NIFB apply the industry’s most advanced temperature zoning tools to support NIFB’s food preservation and logistics efforts,” states Fred Jevaney, President of Randall Manufacturing. An initial supply of pallet covers has been donated to support the NIFB’s food safety transportation efforts and a financial contribution has been made to support the Holiday Meal Box program. Randall Manufacturing is also providing cold storage consulting services as NIFB constructs the new distribution center located in Geneva, Illinois. “We look forward to our continued partnership with Randall Manufacturing as we move into our new facility to help meet growing demand during these challenging times,” shared Gary Knuth, Manager, Food Partner Relations at NIFB.
